

GOTTA HAVE IT: WIDESCREEN WONDER

Portable navigation devices just took a giant leap ahead with Timex's new Expedition WS4, which brings an array of options for the outdoor adventurer. Packing an altimeter, barometer, thermometer, and compass into one rugged unit, the Expedition features a widescreen display that's easy to see in dim light or rough weather.

In addition to weather forecasting and a 100-hour chronograph, the device records and displays your highest and lowest altitude, time spent at or above target altitude, and highest and lowest barometric pressure and temperature. About $200 at select retailers. timex.com

